

International Links with ICD

Integrated College Dungannon (ICD) has commenced a programme of international collaboration which has seen staff and students from the ICD work with and learn from two schools in Riyadh, the capital of the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia.

A “Connecting Classrooms” conference in Manchester was organised by the British Council and aims to promote an awareness and deeper understanding of different cultures and societies.

Following the conference, Mr Natheer Al Labbad, Representative from Riyadh Boys’ School, spent three days at ICD working with staff and students across the college community. Highlights of the visit included a special assembly where Natheer thanked the college for a warm welcome and a positive input to the project.

A detailed project plan has been agreed between all three schools and the British Council have generously allocated further funding to support this project of mutual understanding and communication.

Photograph: Natheer Al Labbad dresses Donavan Abernethy in the uniform of students at Riyadh Boys’ School.

